Election Results

After the count a tie was established for the 9th place on the Committee of Management. The office staff conducted several recounts to ensure the count was correct.

The Committee of Management discussed options for an appropriate selection processes to resolve the 9th committee member place. After consultation both candidates requested the CoM make the decision.

The CoM members were asked to review the election statements and asked the candidates to present their top 5 priorities they felt should be addressed by the CoM in its next term of office. After returns were received from both nominees a vote was cast.

Rick Williams was accepted as the 9th committee member by majority decision. Andrew is now in the position of standby nominee, as under the rules of the newly amended constitution, should any committee member resign from their position, the next highest polling nominee in the election is to be offered the vacated seat on the CoM.

The results from the election are listed below.
